Helwan, situated in the Arabian desert, about 17 miles from Cairo and 3 miles from the Nile, is an ideal winter resort. Circled by the Mokattam Hills and with a panorama of pyramids in front, it is famed for its fine dry climate and its invigorating desert air. There are many stone quarries in the neighbourhood, and all day long, strings of camels may be seen passing to and fro. Besides the railway, Helwan is connected with Cairo by a motor road, opened in May, 1912, and many interesting expeditions to Sahara, Memphis, etc., may be made from this desert centre.
